Situation overview

Clashes were reported west of Bentiu, Unity State, including around the UN Base where up to 25,000 people are sheltered. Due to insecurity, humanitarian access was hampered. Flights to Bentiu were suspended for several days, thus delaying the delivery of aid supplies. Heavy military presence was also reported in northern Unity State. In Jonglei State, the situation was calm in Bor but clashes were reported in Akobo County.

More than 1.3 million South Sudanese have been displaced, of whom about 350,000 people have fled to Ethiopia, Kenya, Sudan and Uganda. There are up to 87,000 people sheltering in UN bases. According to recent data, four million people are facing acute food insecurity. Due to insecurity and displacement, many people are unable to farm, access their normal food sources or migrate with their livestock. This context has drastically reduced food production.

Humanitarian needs and response

The Ministry of Health declared a cholera outbreak on 15 May in Juba, Central Equatoria, following the confirmation of once case. To date, 43 suspected cases of cholera have been reported, in several neighbourhoods of Juba. Two deaths were reported. The Ministry of Health in collaboration with health partners are conducting comprehensive investigations, including following up the contacts of all the cases. A national emergency task force to coordinate cholera response was activated.

Several assessments and responses were ongoing in various conflict-affected areas under the Rapid Response Mechanism (RRM). An inter-agency assessment mission was concluded in Leer County, Unity State, on 12 May. About 36,000 displaced people were in need of assistance. A multi-sector response is underway including health, nutrition and food assistance.

In Ayod County, Jonglei State, a rapid assessment in Jiech, Mogot and Pagil locations, concluded that a significant number of people have been displaced, with the majority of them in need of food security. The number of displaced people is estimated to be up to 60,000 but this figure needs further verification.

Another rapid assessment was also conducted in Renk, Upper Nile. The mission visited several locations, including the UN base, a returnee's camp in Abayok, and other locations such as Jalhak and Wontou. About 13,000 people were displaced in Wontou and in need of food, emergency shelter, water, and sanitation and health assistance. Response is underway. In Nasir and Ulang counties, a rapid assessment is being planned following the reports that thousands of displaced people have crossed into Ethiopia. In Ethiopia, the number of new arrivals at Burubiey entry point is estimated to be around 16,000.

For the first time since the outbreak of the crisis, partners were able to move a barge from Gambella, Ethiopia, to Akobo, Jonglei State, through Akobo River. 70 metric tons of food was successfully delivered.

Background on the crisis:

Violence broke out in Juba, the capital of South Sudan, on 15 December 2013 and quickly spread to several other states. Within weeks, thousands of people had been killed or wounded in the violence, and hundreds of thousands displaced from their homes. Despite the signing of a cessation of hostilities agreement on 23 January 2014, fighting between Government and opposition forces has continued, especially in Jonglei, Unity and Upper Nile states, where towns and rural areas have been ravaged by the violence. The crisis has led to a serious deterioration in the food security situation, and some 3.7 million people are now at high risk of food insecurity in the coming year.
